Porter A. Whaley, secretary of the Anderson chamber of commerce, said last night that so far as he knew nothing had been left undone which should be done and he believes that people of Anderson are going to appreciate the efforts put forth when they see the results today.

Discussing another feature of the oxhibit, one of the principal promoters of the exhibit said that one important thing to be provided in connection with the holding or this event is the impetus which it will give stock-raising in Auderson county. 'Day of Atenement" Amonfi Mos Solemn of Jewish Days, Is Observed In Anderson

Members of the Jewish race in An derson have been engaged since yes terday afternoon in celebrating what s probably the hollest day in the Jewish calendar, the "Day of Atone ment" or Yum Kippur. The services began yesterday and will continue broughout toda

The festival is orgained in Leviticus 16:29-34 and 23:36-32. In both passages it is styled "A Sabbath of Solmn Rest.

The purposes of the Day of Atonement is clearly indicated by its name. it is intended to complete and crown the work of the penitential season, begun on the first of Tishri (new year), by finally reconciling the soul with the Almighty. Implicity trusting n the divine forgiveness, the Israel-Ite believes that his contrition, if it be really sincere, will atone for him, will make him "at one" once more with his Heavenly Father. The day, then, is Gevoted to a supreme effort of peni-tence, to a mighty endeavor after com-munion with the Almighty. It is spent in prayer and meditation.

It is kept, too. as a fast, in obedience to the command given in each of the two passages above cited, where the expression "afflict the soul" must be understood, as it is throughout the Bible, as synonymois with fasting of The chief, the real aim of the Day of Atonement is the reformed life. All the external elements of the day's ob-servance—its worship and nustcrities are intended to promote this supreme purpose. They can not do duty for it.

The act of fasting is partly to serve as a self-imposed chartisement, and partly it has a reflex influence. For hunger and weakness tell upon the conscience; they mornify pride, break down obstinacy, cast men down before God in humility and contrition. But fasting does even more han that. Taking the worshipper away from such carnal occupations as eating and drinking, it kelps to fix his thoughts upon the needs of the soul. It makes the day one of physical abstinence and self denial, but also of correspondingy increased spirituality.

FEEDING THE COLT FOR DEVELOPMENT

[Prepared by United States department of

A question similar to the following b sometimes propounded by farmers who have not had much experience in raising colts: "Will a colt which is properly fed and cared for make a berger and better horse than one that is fed on corn and stover through its first winter; or will he just make him self more quickly in the former case? It would be well for all farmers who are now producing or who intend to produce in the future one or more colt each season to ponder on the above men that a colt will make a good borse Whether he be fed well or left to shift for himself as best he can, provided he be allowed sufficient time in the mak ing. The proper growth and develop ment of the colt depends just as much on the nature of the feed given it as any other growing thing, and if any farmer wishes to include in a bit of expensive carelessness, he cannot do it more easily than to neglect the feed of his colts. After the young colt begins to in vestigate his mother's feed box at feed ing time he should be provided with a

In no class of farm animals is the use of pure bred aires so important a factor as in horses. The rule use of inferior grade sires is responsible for the great numbers of nondescript horses continually being sold in our public horse markets. The use of the high grade pure bred sire is absolutely essential in improving our market types of horses. The illustration shows a pure bred Percheron mare that was a prize winner last fail.

box of his own and fed separately about all the ground oats and corn be wants twice a day. But it is usually after he is weaned, at a time when be can best utilize a litteral grain ration, that he fares the hardest. If his feed is what it should be, he will continue to grow steadily and develop into a good boned, well muscled horse, But if he is poorly fed, he fails to "grow off" right, he becomes stunted and his allowance of "corn and stover" bas a telling effect when spring comes through his poor health, ragged ap-pearance and drooping spirits. He will not only grow more slowly but the the horse he would otherwise have made. Silage For Steers.

Experiments at several stations dur-ing the past five years have proved being the past five years have proved be-yond question the value and economy of corn silage in the ration for fat-tening steers. Silage fed steers have made the heaviest and cheapest gains, have attained the highest finish during the feeding period and have sold for the most money on the market. In the most money on the market. In five extensive trials at the Indiana experiment station along with allage an important part of their feed have shown an average advantage of about $750 per head over those finished on dry feed. Moreover the very best and cheapest dry rations have failed to equal a good slage ration either in amount or cheapness of galas.

Rame Food we at Home.
Raise feeders at home is the advice of Dean Burnett of the Keprasia college of agriculture. The statement was offered as the only solution for the scarcity of beef. Even though the present day and values are high he argued that if the best side is made of all reuchage and if other good bushness management is exercised, beef may be grown at a profit on high priced land.
